Residents and visitors have a trendy new "hot spot" to enjoy the most iconic views in Huntington Beach with the opening in October of HQ Gastropub at 5th & PCH, formerly known as The Strand.

"HQ Gastropub is described as a pub, bar or tavern that also offers meals of High Quality – hence the name HQ" states owner, Mark Matters. "We're known for our pop culture, international menu fare, craft beers, wine, and cocktails, paired with music videos and sports entertainment."

HQ Gastropub joins the eclectic tenant mix at 5th & PCH, known as a boutique marketplace that includes the Kimpton Shorebreak Hotel, casual dining and shopping merchants. "The Shorebreak just finished an exterior renovation, including a $3 million remodel of its rooms, lobbies and an all new restaurant, Pacific Hideaway" says Senior Property Manager, Kate Leigh. "We just opened The Pizza Press, and If Outlet with young ladies casual wear. We're stoked!"

After HQ Gastropub opens in October, more new merchants will be opening at 5th & PCH, according to Senior VP of Leasing for SRS Real Estate Partners, Terrison Quinn who announced recently "We are close to signing some complimentary uses including a salon, boutique fitness studio and several new-to-market restaurant options."
